THE TELSTAR REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1989 has spent the last week preparing for the final countdown of their high school careers. Graduation is this Friday evening, in the gym.

Bethel elections Tuesday

candidates are scarce

Bethel's municipal elections will be conducted next Tuesday, with polling to take place at the fire station from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

There are two seats on the SAD #44

Board of Directors up for grabs, as well as two selectmen's seats.

The two directors' seats are presently being filled by Merton Brown and Dick Crandall. Mr. Crandall is not seeking re-election, while Mr. Brown is. Two new candidates, in addition to Mr. Brown, turned in nomination papers last month—Carol Murphy and Jane Rolfe. Ms. Murphy has since removed his name from the contest.

In the selectmen's contest, the terms of incumbents Arthur Gilbert and Victor Coolidge are expiring. Only Mr. Gilbert turned in nomination papers for re-election. Mr. Coolidge has indicated he will be a write-in candidate. Some business people in town have urged a write-in vote for John Thurston.

Town Meeting to consider $1M budget proposal

When Town Meeting convenes in the Telstar auditorium next Wednesday evening, voters will be asked to approve a budget totaling over $1 million. The municipal budget, if approved, will be approximately 27 percent higher than the current fiscal year's municipal budget.

Accounting for the budget increase are extra expenses as the town converts its solid waste disposal from landfilling to a transfer station, plus proposed larger police force, plus proposed capital equipment purchases.

Discussion is expected on all three major issues: solid waste, police, and capital equipment.

While the Budget Committee did not challenge the Board of Selectmen's stated vote for a larger police force—to include a third full-time officer—or the selectmen's desire for nearly $145,000 for solid waste disposal, the two boards split on what capital equipment should be purchased this coming year.

On Article 23, the Board of Selectmen recommends spending $67,000 and purchasing a new dump truck. The Budget Committee recommends setting aside $28,000 and purchasing a new truck later on.

On Article 24, the Board of Selectmen recommends setting aside no new funds for a replacement fire truck. The Budget

Selectmen appoint helpers in search for new police chief

Following a closed-door session Monday night, the Bethel Board of Selectmen appointed Arnol Brown, John Elliot and June Greig to the Police Search Committee. The committee will assist the selectmen and the town manager in going through resumes and interviewing candidates for the police chief's position.

To date, nine people have applied for the police chief's job, according to Town Manager Rodney Lynch. The deadline Keiser Homes will play at friendly Perham Field

It took a lot of hustle, and a little help from their friends, but the Keiser Homes Westies have regained their hometown advantage.

Playoff time for Telstar teams

Coming off winning seasons, both the softball and baseball teams of Telstar Regional High School will take part in post-season tournament play beginning this week.

The boys' and girls' teams play quarterfinal games today (Wednesday) at home. The boys, sporting a 12-4 record, face North Yarmouth, with a record of 11-5. The Rebels are ranked 4th in Western Class C and therefore have field advantage over N.Y.A., which is ranked 5th.

The girls, who are ranked 3rd in Western Class C, face 4th-ranked Freeport. The girls have compiled a 13-3 record, while Freeport is 9-5 during the regular season.

Both coaches like their team's chances in the second-season shootout.

The baseball team is essentially the same that came within a game of taking the state Class C championship last year.

Coach Levi Brown lost only one starter from last season's squad and will be fielding an experienced nine made up of seven seniors and two juniors. They have the experience and the talent to go all the way.

Pounding away in the heart of the batting order, seniors Rick Roy and Gary Williams between them have 88 RBIs for the season. Hitting in the cleanup spot, Rick notched a .329 average, while Gary, who bats third, hit .349. Setting the table for them, junior second baseman Corey Duguay batted .402 and pushed home 27 RBIs of his own.

The fearsome offense is matched by a formidable pitching staff, which Coach

Woodstock and Clukeys settle beach dispute

Town officials in Woodstock have apparently come to a compromise agreement with Harold Clukey over a disputed piece of beachfront at the end of Lake Street.

Unlike the eight-month search following the resignation of former-Chief Bob Stearns—which was conducted by the Maine Municipal Association at a cost to the Town of $2,600—the search this time is being conducted by town officials themselves, with the assistance of the newly appointed committee.

In other action Monday night, the selectmen voted 4-0 (Selectman Peter Haines was absent) to ask the Federal Emergency Management Agency to extend

River forum Tuesday

A public forum on problems plaguing the Androscoggin River, and suggested solutions, will feature legislators, environmentalists, state bureaucrats and paper company officials discussing the issue.

The public is invited to join the discussion—as listeners or commentators—which will take place in the Telstar lecture hall, next Tuesday, at 7 p.m. The forum is sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

Brown feels might be the deciding factor in the playoffs. A number of teams in the playoffs have one strong pitcher, but no one can match him; Telstar has four solid starters.

"With four quality pitchers we should do better in the playoffs," the coach said. He is so confident in his pitching, in fact, that he's saving his two top starters (again, Gary Williamson and Rick Roy) and has tapped right-hander Jim Merrill to open against North Yarmouth.

Another asset for the Rebels is their attitude. The seniors have moved a step closer to the state championship in each of their four seasons at Telstar. But this will be their last shot.

"The players are up and ready," their coach said. "They know what they have to do."

The Rebel softball team can't claim to have the experience the boys do under playoff pressure, but, surprisingly, Coach Jim Lummey's young squad boasts a better (by one game) regular-season record.

The Rebels lost five starters, including their two top pitchers, from last year's squad. But sophomore Angie Hebert and junior Angie Jordan stepped in to close the pitching gap, and the rest of the team made the adjustments they had to in order to reach the playoffs for the eighth season in a row.

MMA ready to close the books

While students in far-off China are demonstrating—and dying—for more openness in government, here in Maine the Legislature is getting ready to decree less openness in government.

As this is a piece of legislation proposed by the Maine Municipal Association that would hide the names and qualifications of candidates for jobs in the public sector. Presently, the public has the right to know who is applying for, say, police chief or town manager of their town.

If the MMA has its way, this right will be taken away. Citizens will no longer be able to find out who applied for a particular job. The only information that will be available to them will be the name and resume of the person actually hired for the particular job.

The MMA calls this bill (L.D. 1329) one of its highest priorities in the current session of the Legislature. Why? Because the MMA is often the outfit that conducts the candidate selection process for towns and cities throughout the state. They don't want the average citizen looking over their shoulder at how they do their work.

The MMA contends that the reason they want to close the process to oversight by the press and concerned citizens is that it is unfair to candidates to have the public know they are applying for a new job. With feigned shock the MMA asks, "What if a candidate's current employer finds out the person is seeking a job elsewhere?"

Let's face it, in an employer/employee relationship, there should be enough openness so that each knows if the employee is there permanently or is likely to move on.

Ironically, in the current search for a city manager for Brunswick—a search being conducted by the MMA—this outfit has asked the candidates to produce letters of reference from their current employers. Is this any way to keep things secret from the boss? MMA's argument for keeping the hiring process secret seems less than credible.

On the other hand, the arguments for keeping the hiring process open to public scrutiny are compelling. First, the employer is the public—not the town council or the selectmen. Second, if the hiring process is kept completely behind closed doors, the employer (that is, the taxpayers) cannot be sure that the best person has been hired or that there was not personal bias involved in the hiring process.

There are actually two versions of the proposed legislation likely to reach the floor of the House and Senate this week or early next week. The bill favored by a majority of the members on the joint Judiciary Committee would, as noted above, completely do away with public scrutiny of the hiring process. An alternative bill, favored by the joint chairmen of the committee, would close off public review of the names and resumes of the total number of candidates but would permit public review of the names and resumes of finalists for a public sector position.

Ideally, both bills should be defeated so that the present situation can continue—that is, open records of all who apply for public positions. But the MMA has labored hard and effectively—using taxpayer money—for shutting off the free flow of information and it is likely that the bill proposing a total cut-off of information will be passed. That is, unless the public is outraged enough to call up their legislators.

Of the local legislative delegation, only Sen. Don Twitchell has pledged to vote against the MMA proposal. What about the others? bfw

But somebody's gotta do it

Voters in Bethel's municipal election won't have much of a choice when they go to the polls next Tuesday. There are two Bethel seats open on the Board of Directors of SAD #44. There are two people running. (There had been three; one dropped out.)

There are also two seats open on the Board of Selectmen. There is only one candidate—incurbent Arthur Gilbert. Incumbent Victor Coolidge and businessman John Thurston have been mentioned as likely-in candidates.

Is this any way to run local government?...elective posts going unchallenged and uncouth?

With all the headaches involved in being a local official, it's understandable that it wouldn't be the sort of extra job that everyone would jump at. But surely there must be a few people in town who would like to try their hands at making a difference. No one is suggesting that they have to change the world; just that they be diligent in studying issues, listen to all sides, and make decisions on their assessment of what would be best for the town.

It is certainly late in the game to throw one's hat in the ring for next Tuesday's election, but a group of friends making a dozen phonecalls apiece can ensure a good write-in vote for a good candidate.

And for those who don't like the idea of running but like the idea of serving there is always the Planning Board. This is the board whose members get stoop-shouldered from the weighty reading materials—site plans, subdivision applications, town ordinances—they are forced to carry around. This is the board whose members almost invariably are forced to appear hard-nosed to applicants in order to ensure that each applicant is following the dictates of the applicable ordinance.

This is not a board where members vote on the basis of feelings; on this board the members need to memorize the town ordinances and decide applications on the basis of these ordinances.

And for the long hours these board members put in studying and meeting, they get paid zip, zero, zilch.

Why do they do it, then? Because it's a thankless job...but somebody's got to do it. And without seven diligent members—and two diligent alternates—this board could not function, and development in the town could not be controlled.

If you want to have a real impact on how this town develops, the Planning Board is the place for you. The board is looking for three new members to replace three incumbents who have done their share. Apply at the town office—and be ready to work hard.

Amy Blake gets 2 medals

Four girls from the Telstar Regional High School track team represented the school at the state meet held at Orono last Saturday.

Amy Blake had an outstanding day, winning two silver medals. She placed 2nd in the 300-meter hurdles, with a time of 48 seconds flat. She also took a 2nd in the 100-meter hurdles, with a sensational time of 15.2 seconds, which was a new school record. Amy presently holds four school records.

The boys' team was represented by Jamie Blake, Gregor Axler, Scott Emery and Eric Bennett. Although the boys were not able to garner any medals, they did perform admirably. Jamie made the finals in two events—placing 7th in both.

The girls' team sent nine girls to the regional meet, at Bowdoin College. All the girls had great performances and four of them went on to the state meet.

The girls who went to the regionals included Paula Michaud, Amy Blake, Jen Gould, Robin Michaud, November Yates,

The Citizen loves to receive letters. They may be on any subject of interest and on any side of any issue.

Letters to be considered for publication must be signed and should have the phone number of the letter-writer so that, in case there are any questions, the letter-writer can be contacted.

While generally, letters are printed as written, the editor reserves the right to edit any letter for clarity, length, grammar and spelling, factuality, and decency.

Letters meant for publication in the week's paper should be in the Citizen office by Monday noon.

A note from the publisher

"Send lawyers, guns and money," and anything else you think might be important. That is what is shaping up to be a test between the little businesses of Main Street, Bethel, and one of the largest corporations in the state—Central Maine Power.

To see the way CMP has handled the re-polling and rewriting of its Main Street line is to see how a big corporation throws its weight around—and to understand why big corporations get bad names.

CMP last fall CMP approached the selectmen and asked for permission to place a pole on the Common in order to support a new pole the company wanted to plant in front of Annie Hastings' house. The selectmen said, in nice terms, "nothing doing." They did not want any additional hindrance to life and limb on the Common, where kids run and people stroll.

Not satisfied with that answer, CMP was back a couple of months later, telling the selectmen they had to permit the new pole on the Common. The selectmen responded that the entire re-polling of Main Street would be put in jeopardy. The selectmen gave in.

Then came the re-polling and re-writing. The most egregious error to date is the placement of a pole through the Cole Black sewer line, putting the toilets and sinks of the building that houses the town office, W.J. Wheeler, and Citizen Press out of commission for two days.

For us at The Citizen, this meant not able to do any of our pre-work that requires using water and sinks—in addition to the inconvenience of having no toilets.

Next, the CMP crews cut off power to the Cole Block for the better part of one whole morning, again causing a shutdown of the Citizen's presses. When power was restored, it was done phase by phase on the Citizen's 3-phase, 220-volt line, knocking out the electronic brain of our new cutter.

That was on a Thursday. It was a Tuesday before we could get a technician to come and repair the damage. CMP also sent an official to inspect the problem.

Despite the word of the technician that the damage was caused by the manner in which the CMP crew restored the power, the CMP official said it was not his company's problem and that we would have to bear the hundreds of dollars in repairs on our own expense—not to mention the hundreds of dollars in work time we lost.

I have heard rumors that CMP has caused problems to other businesses and homes along Main Street. If you can provide me with any solid information on these alleged problems, I would appreciate it. Even so, even with a strict legal case, it will be difficult to stand up to a giant. Therefore, follow the advice of the song and "Send lawyers, guns and money."

With the deluge of rain we've been having of late, the one song that keeps running around my brain is "Raindrops Keep Falling On My Head" from that classic film "Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid."

If pressed, I might be able to come up with a dozen other titles of songs containing the word "rain" or variations of the word.

But from Seattle I received word this week that David Chelimer—known as "the rainfall champion" of song title contests—has put together a list of 1,000 song titles containing the word "rain." This fest won him first place in a Twin Blade Wiper Reills nationwide contest.

Why mention this here? Because David and his wife Lynda are good friends of mine and part owners of our newspaper. Our readers should know something about who owns their local paper, and therefore I'm including this tidbit.

According to an article the Chelimers sent me, clipped from the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, David plans to donate the $1,000 prize to charity. The article quotes him as saying, "Half will go to the Salvation Army to keep people out of the rain, and the other half to the Nature Conservancy to protect the rain forest."

I was horrified Saturday when I heard on the evening news that Chinese troops had opened fire on the students in Tiananmen Square, in Beijing, Not only was it a shock to my humanitarian instincts, but moreover a shock because my son had just left for China the day before.

Mary had flown from Boston to San Francisco to Tokyo, on her way to Beijing and chance Tsinghua University for a linguistics conference, where she was to present a paper.

When I heard of the massacre in the Chinese capital, I felt sure that flights to Beijing would have been halted and that Mary would be stuck in Tokyo.

As it turned out, flights were halted. But Mary's flight from Tokyo was the last flight allowed in. She called Sunday morning—Sunday morning!—to tell me she had to cancel her flight to Beijing. She had been scheduled to stay in the Beijing Hotel, but when she asked a cab to drive her there from the airport, he shook his head, held his hands as if holding an AK-47, and made rapid fire noises. He therefore took her to the Sheraton, further from the bloodshed.

She said she saw soldiers on the streets during the 45 ride to the hotel, and inside the hotel things were somewhat chaotic. American journalists had dashed for the safety of the American Embassy in order to keep their film and notes from being confiscated by military, and service personnel in the $10-a-night hotel had not come to work. But Mary's flight from Tokyo was the last flight allowed in. She called Sunday morning—Sunday morning!—to tell me she had to cancel her flight to Beijing. She had been scheduled to stay in the Beijing Hotel, but when she asked a cab to drive her there from the airport, he shook his head, held his hands as if holding an AK-47, and made rapid fire noises. He therefore took her to the Sheraton, further from the bloodshed.

Lashed her if she had taken any photos with the simple camera I had given her for her trip. She said she had forgotten all about it, and—in any case—did not consider it prudent to be taking photos if the professional journalists were fearful that their films were going to be confiscated. I guess I'll never be able to turn her into a journalist. But, then again, she'll never be able to turn me into a linguist.

Letters to the editor

To the Editor:

I would like to declare myself as a gun-in candidate for selectman in the upcoming elections.

As you may know, there is a position on the Board of Selectmen for which no candidates have submitted papers. In order to fill that important office, Bethel voters must write a name on the ballot. I ask that you consider my qualifications and write in my name.

I am a Bethel native, educated in the Bethel school system and a college graduate.

I have 15 years' experience in management in the field of science and industry. Two years ago I chose to return to Bethel to help my family's woodturning business.

I live in town and I share the concerns of my neighbors with the issues that concern the future of our town.

I feel that the actions and decisions of the Board of Selectmen are critical in determining the direction and quality of our town's future. The position of selectmen should be filled by someone who is willing to work toward long-term solutions to the problems we real about quickly in the short term. The position should be filled by someone who wants it, who is willing to work hard to earn it and to keep it. It should not be left to the chance election of miscellaneous writers.

I commit myself to gathering the votes necessary to gain this seat on the board, and to the promise of performing as a dedicated selectman.

Please read and clip out the instructions for proper voting in writing, which appear in my ad elsewhere in this paper. Take it with you to the polls on June 13 and vote.

To the Editor:

I am writing to urge you to take an editorial stand favoring the elimination of the 40-acre lot exemption from Maine's land use laws. Land speculators and developers continue to take advantage of this exemption in order to escape regulatory review of their subdivisions, undermining the ability of LURC to manage growth in Maine's unorganized territories. The Maine House and Senate will be debating this issue next week.

Last spring, the Legislature removed the exemption for land subdivisions in the shoreline zone and gave municipalities—but not LURC—the option of reviewing all large lot subdivisions, regardless of location. The remaining exemption in the unorganized territories continues to create serious problems.

Through LURC found that from May through December of 1988, over 17,000 acres of forest land were converted to large lot subdivisions without any environmental review.

The Energy and Natural Resources Committee recently voted 8-5 to keep the exemption intact. The minority report would allow a landowner to create up to ten 40-acre lots in a five year period without going through the review process. This version represents a compromise proposal to provide landowners with a great deal of flexibility. The issue now moves to the full House and Senate where a floor fight is expected.

To the Editor:

I would like to thank Rodney Lynch for his prompt attention to my request for a Children Playing sign at the lower end of my driveway at the top of Chapman Street. The sign had fallen down over the course of the winter and I asked to have it put back quickly. The very next day there it was. I am very grateful because this was a very sharp corner and I often see cars career around the corner, or two fire trucks, with great squealing of tires. Every time I see or hear this my only thought is that someone is going to be hit or there is going to be a terrible accident. My wife and I and our neighbors did not plan the street and they have been taught to look very carefully before crossing or riding their bicycles into the street. The only problem is that at the places these cars come around the corner there is no time or way for the kids to get out of the way. Even adults turning into my driveway have commented that they have almost been hit by broadside by people coming around the corner too fast.

I beg of you, please slow down, don't kill an innocent person. Whatever you are in such a hurry for will wait the few extra minutes it will take you to get there at a slower pace. Thank how long you will be delayed if you cause an accident to a car or a person.

Thank you again to Rodney for his help and I hope to see much slower cars in the future.

We would like to thank all those who helped to fix the Harold Perham Field—Pike Industries, of Waterford, for the Crusher Dust; the truck drivers who delivered it; Bob Seames, Russell Parker and Tommey Russell. Also thanks to the West Paris Utility District (Phelps, Phil and Ray) for the donation of the clay for the base coat. To Hadley for delivering the clay at such a reasonable rate, and Hadley's truck drivers, Squig, Keith and Dale. Also the donation of the free bulldozer was performed by Bruce Thurlow with Bob Hadley's son, Thomas. Louis Sturt for putting the Crusher Dust on the infield and the dozer on the Little League field. Also, thanks to Craig Ryerson for donating the tractor and time to rock rake and drag the infield for free. Finally, thanks to the Town Team, Keiser Homes, for the time and effort they all put forth to get the field fixed in time for the home opener.

Thanks to you all!

To the Editor:

As it stands, the Marketplace is re-opened, and we would like it opened under the management of David Brunette and David Mero.

Dave and Dave M. have been super people to work for. As employees of the Marketplace, we have met and become acquainted with many wonderful local people and seasonal residents.

The store was always clean, the meat was fresh, the produce was fresh and attractive, there was delivery service and weekly specials.

Dave and Dave were most recently associated with AG Grocers. This company cares about the Marketplace and was always there for help and suggestions on store management. In the beginning they were with a different wholesale company with little interest in the well-being of the local store.

We know many people want the store open because as employees we are constantly asked about it. Dave and Dave had to build a reputation after the store failed under the management of John Praig. Dave B. and Dave M. have not closed the doors and run away. They are exploring every avenue available to them to get the store open again.

We are asking our wonderful, faithful customers to join our hands and add your name to our list to present to their creditors, to go that extra mile and give them the financial help that they need to open those doors. We would welcome any comments that we could pass on.

We believe that the community needs this store. Let's get behind Dave Brunette and Dave Mero and give them the support that they need to open those doors.

pedite its review of floodplain data around Sanding Brook in Bethel Village and issue new floodplain maps for the area.

"The board action was in response to a request from officials of Technical Services Inc., of Lewiston. TSI is the firm doing preliminary engineering work for Gifford, Dunn & Co., the Portland development company that will build public housing behind Mason Street."

One of the hurdles faced in developing that area is the wetness associated with Sanding Brook. One of the tasks for the developer is to engineer a solution so that the development stays dry, and so the development does not cause added wetness on the property of other residents in the vicinity of the brook.

TSI first asked the board to approve a letter to FEMA asking the agency to take the area off the floodplain altogether. That was with a condition for a fee. It's Peat Dooley to table the matter until a workshop could be held, the TSI officials said they would be happy to settle for a letter merely asking FEMA to expedite its review of new state data on the SANDING BROOK area. The officials said if they know how high FEMA says the water is during flood stage, they can then design a means for controlling that amount of water.

Currently the engineers are considering a retention pond on the right-side parcel. The pond would hold 53,000 cubic feet of water during flooding and release it into the brook after the flooding had subsided.

Mrs. Dooley was skeptical that any engineered solution could be practical given the relatively small size of the parcel of land. "I'm not opposed to the project," she said, "but I can't help but think it should be in a different area."

The board told TSI that on the other hand, if the board may be able to design a method of keeping the water in check within the development. They added that their localized solution would not find the wet cellars and street cave-ins associated with the brook—only that it might lessen those problems somewhat.

The project is due to come up for a second hearing before the Planning Board tonight (Wednesday).

The board voted 4-0 to authorize the purchase of a Roan Rescue brand ambulance for $37,000, if the Maine Motor Vehicle Tax Credit is available.

The Roan Rescue vehicle was recommended by the B.E.A.R.S. because it is a sound ambulance, and the company has a representative in Bethel and a repair shop in Sherman Mills, plus a mechanic who can call at the ambulance barn.

The basic vehicle is a 1989 Ford with a 7.3 litre diesel engine, plus a 142-inch by 96-inch box. Aside from the standard equipment, the new ambulance will come with a few thousand dollars worth of extras, including provisions for portable spotlights, an AM/FM cassette-stereo, etc.

The board—acting as the sewer commissioners—unanimously approved a record $171,550 budget for the Sewer Department, to be funded by an increase in user fees. The budget this year, ending June 30, is $139,074. Included in the new budget is provision for a second full-time operator, as demanded by the state Department of Environmental Protection. The Sewer Department had operated with one part-time person with the Highway Department.

"Following some discussion the board voted, 5-1 (with Chairman Arlan Jodrey opposed), to amend to recently adopted no-parking rule on lower Main Street below Clark Street. The amendment would allow 15-minute parking for loading and unloading in two parking places in front of the Sudbury Inn."

Selectman Jodrey, who had been away during the adoption of the no-parking rule, was against going off so much lower Main Street. "I'm open to letting two or three parking spaces," he said.

The request for reconsideration of the total parking ban was made by David Thurston, owner of the Sudbury Inn.

As the Maine Legislature heads down the home stretch of its session with only one month remaining, the twin issues of income tax reform and property tax relief continue to press lawmakers for workable solutions.

Without question, the complex tax matters stand among the legislature's foremost challenges.

Addressing the urgency for restructuring the state's income tax system was the release of a report from an independent tax consultant last week confirming the legislative leadership's best misgivings about the administration's low estimate of income tax over-collections for the 1987-1988 taxable year.

The majority leaders had expressed the belief that the over-collections would amount to $60 million, double what had been originally projected by administration officials. An analysis by the independent consultant found that the house bill in the project will be duplex, a total of 250 total units would eventually be taxable.

Here in this great outdoor museum I'm in the presence of nature each day. I do not see through the eyes of another, but my own.

Education? Yes, but this program is forced on nobody. You take it or leave it. You enjoy yourself as you please.

I saw this week for the first time a new episode in my life and found my gray squirrel real interesting. We usually think that only animal lives beyond human control and support. It finds its own food and shelter, and nature alone determines the time for the bearing of the young.

This special Gray took over my duck house in early spring. She must have liked the beauty of the surroundings. The house is attached to one of a group of birches near my mail box and overlooking the pond. From my window, the bird in the front, she could watch the ducks, the geese and the swaying bushes. She remained there, feeding on my bird seeds or the doughnuts I had put on a wire.

Well, this week she decided to move. Why? I don't know. Was it because of a neighbor's black cat which waited outside her home, sometimes an hour or more at a time? Or, was she worried about her babies falling into the water? Which ever or why—she moved.

I looked from my window and saw her entering the road with what looked to be a large gray ball. I took my binoculars to get a better view. The gray ball was a baby and nearly half as large as its mother of 15 or 20 inches, including its variegated tail. In rain the tail curves over its back like an umbrella. In cold it's a blanket. The squirrel is in greeting, flings it in anger, waves it in triumph. It serves as a balance. In a fall it's used as a parachute; in water as a rudder.

To get back to the "moving", Mother went down the road a little way, crossed the ditch at her left, then went through the tall grass to my lawn. She then crossed the lawn, my driveway, and into the woods. In a very few minutes she returned to the birch tree, took another baby and traveled the same route again. But this didn't end here for she made a third trip. By now she was tired so had

Mary Mills was at Muskie Auditorium, Rumford High School Thursday evening where she attended a graduation of about 80 sixth graders, one of whom was her grandson, Dustin Mills, from the D.A.R.E. culmination program.

D.A.R.E. stands for Drug Abuse Resistance Education and is sponsored by the Rumford Police Department. This course given to sixth graders in the Rumford schools is for drug resistance.

Dusty is a student at the St. Athanasius-St. John Elementary School. Besides their diplomas, they were given

T-shirts and balloons with the initials

D.A.R.E. This extensive course is designed to try to prevent drug use before it gets to an educational level.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mills were in Fryeburg Sunday where they attended the morning services of the Fryeburg Assembly of God and then went to their father's, Charles Swan's, where they had a small birthday celebration for him. His nephew, Bobby Chapman, was also a visitor there and a sister-in-law, Hilda, stopped in as did Joan Rawson.

I hear Denise Swan is also among those who celebrated a birthday on May 30.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary met Tuesday evening with Barbara Dunham, Flossie Bernier, Charlotte Kribbel, Denise Swan, Lorraine Mills, Sally Mills, Shirley Young, Maggie Ring and Mary Stine present. The upcoming Senior Citizen dinner was discussed. The Auxiliary has been invited to meet with the Bryant Pond Auxiliary to share ideas. The proceeds of the supper were $262, not $242 as reported last

transporting to some disposal site appears to be the best solution at the present time. Some options are available. The selected land and solid waste committee is favoring D & E Sanitation for the pick up. Virgil Conkright, fire chief, reported that he had attended several meetings with fire chiefs from other towns and had attended training courses. Most of the day was devoted to tax processing. The greater part of the time was spent in the office. As soon as the total value is determined, the assessors will compute the tax rate and the computer will do the tax bills, which should be ready to mail out next month. A 2 percent discount will be allowed on taxes paid within 30 days.

A special town meeting was held Tuesday evening to see if the voters would allow the selection committee dependent upon the state to receive $7,500 from the Fire Department Fund to purchase equipment needed to bring the department up to class 9, enabling property owners to get reduced rates on fire insurance. This included an attached pump, replacing the portable pump and the International 2,000 gallon tank truck, and other needed equipment.

This was passed without opposition. Changes in the road specifications, proposed by the ordinance review committee were accepted after some debate, and after requirements that top gravel used must pass through a two inch screen was changed to a four inch screen, and calling for hot topping, or mix in place, compared to two inches to be added. The specification required for two coats of bituminous and asphalt mixture to be applied to the gravel base and the hot topping may be added.

The Building Code was revised to allow UL approved metalbestos chimneys. Metalbestos chimneys had been barred and masonry chimneys required. The revised Shoreland Zoning and Sign Ordinance was passed over at the committee meeting that was not ready to be presented to the voters. Stephen Wight served as moderator of the one hour meeting.

(Society of Workers in Early Years Arts and Trades) which Lenwood Andrews had invited here for a visit. Public viewing was Saturday, 1-4 p.m. to see arts and crafts displays, which sound real interesting. The Working Workers are having a sale July 29 from 9-4 at their building at South Woodstock. A quilt is being raffled off. Aug. 24 a pollock community supper will be held. Silent auction will be held at this time. The next regular meeting will be June 2 at 7. We hope everyone will keep

The bugs are making it very unpleasant to work outside, but the rains are making everything come along so fast, one has to go out to even begin to keep up with the weeds. THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason House

The June meeting of the Bethel Historical Society was held Thursday evening and featured a slide presentation on "Mills, Markets and Techniques: Maine Lumbering 1620-1920," by Dr. Richard Judd, assistant professor of History, University of Maine, Orono. Dr. Judd traced the history of logging in Maine, noted changes in mills from the up-and-down saw to the band, the various means of power used from water power to steam and then to electricity, the various means to transport logs from oxen to Lombard Log Haulers, and the changes in loggers' lives through the 300 years of Maine history included in his presentation. He described the impact of lumbering on Maine history and its importance for Maine's future.

During the second portion of the meeting, President Mervin Orton thanked all those who were responsible for the very successful Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show and the 200th anniversary birthday party for Dr. Mason. He announced that the next meeting would be held July 6. This is the annual picnic meeting and will be held on the Benjamin Russell farm, now the home of his descendant, Geraldine S. Howe, beginning at 5 p.m. The meeting at 7:30 will include the official marking of the graves of Benjamin Russell, Sr. and his wife Mary LeFevre Russell, both born 250 years ago in 1739. Benjamin Russell, Sr. was Bethel's first town clerk. Bethel's present town clerk, Merton True Brown, Sr., will make some remarks on Bethel town clerks through the years and a list of Bethel town clerks, with short biographical sketches, will be presented to everyone attending. President Owinge encouraged everyone interested in picking and honoring the Russells to attend.

Society Director Stanley R. Howe announced the gift-of-the-month was a microfilm cabinet given by the children of Arthur F. and E. Louise Lincoln. Director Howe expressed the Society's gratitude to the Lincoln family for this piece of equipment sorely needed to house the more than 400 reels of microfilm currently in the Society's collection.

Persis Post announced the refreshments for the evening, always popular with loggers, pie and cake. A social hour followed.

Looking Backward
10 Years Ago: An automobile accident in Locke Mills took the lives of five teenagers. The car they were riding in left the road near Bob's Corner Store and plunged into the pond outlet; the driver escaped. Theodore E. Johnson, of the Shaker Community, spoke at the meeting. Eakes was the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Bethel Historical Society. The Dr. Moses Mason House was featured in the June 1979 issue of "Down East" magazine, with four pages of text and photographs. The Middle Intervale Meeting House property was quiet claimed by the Carter heirs in preparation for the organization of a Middle Intervale Meeting House Society to govern and preserve this historical structure.

JACKSON-SILVER AUXILIARY

On May 29 our members joined Jackson-Silver Post in memorializing popular and well known veterans at the annual parade and services in Locke Mills.

We accompanied the Post color guard and firing squad to the East Bethel cemetery where prayer was offered followed by volley and taps.

In the afternoon we attended the Daughters of Veterans services at Bryant Pond and marched in their parade, followed by a trip to Andover where we had refreshments and attended their services. Needless to say, we were not marching as briskly at 3 p.m. in Andover as we were at 9 a.m. in Locke Mills.

Although the numbers of diners were fewer than prepared for and hoped for, the spaghetti supper to benefit the Mary Day family was a success and we were able to raise $1,000 with $41. We wish it could have been more but the cooks who put it all together did a great job.

At the meeting following the supper, plans were discussed and tentative dates set for the coming year's programs.

There are no regularly scheduled meetings for the rest of the summer, but we will be furnishing refreshments and cold drinks when the Post holds their flag burning ceremony on June 11. This is just before Flag Day. Also planned for this summer, in August, is a flea market to be held indoors at the Legion Hall so that we may hold it at any time.

Tables will be available to other organizations or individuals, to rent for sale of their products. Watch for future announcements.

The first meeting in September will be the annual picnic on Sept. 7. Plans are to have an picnic ceremony on Sept. 21. We hope to have a special program on the 21st.

Bryant Pond is the cemetery designated by the National Auxiliary for study this year. On Oct. 19 we will be having the annual membership supper and will, at that time, have as special guests the delegates from Girls' and Boys' State programs. We invite their families, also, to come, enjoy supper and hear their reports with pride.

At the meeting following the supper, plans were discussed and tentative dates set for the coming year's programs. There are no regularly scheduled meetings for the rest of the summer, but we will be furnishing refreshments and cold drinks when the Post holds their flag burning ceremony on June 11. This is just before the annual birthday supper to honor the birthday of the American Legion.

Don't forget to bring your colored or tattered flags to the Locke Mills American Legion Hall for burning on June 11. This is the only acceptable way of disposing of the American flag.

THANK YOU

We would like to thank everyone for their visits, calls and flowers during Larry's stay at Stephens Memorial Hospital. Special thanks to Drs. Ware, Medd and the staff at Stephens. You're a beautiful group of people. Thank you "Special Elves" for your help. Thanks, Ruth.

SWOAM MEETING SATURDAY

How a tree reacts to injury will be the subject of the Saturday, June 10, meeting of the Western Maine Chapter of Small Woodland Owners Association of Maine (WMOA). Dr. John Ostrosky of the University of Maine, Orono, will cover in his talk and demonstration how trees handle damage from logging equipment and other causes.

The group will meet at Trap Corner (junction of Routes 219 and 26 near the store) in West Paris at 9:30 a.m. Members and friends will car pool to the nearby Boise Cascade woodland. Please call Donna Pearce, 364-4321, ext. 2377, for further information.

Special meetings are yet planned until March, 1990, when we will be having the annual birthday supper to honor the birthday of the American Legion.

Don't forget to bring your colored or tattered flags to the Locke Mills American Legion Hall for burning on June 11. This is the only acceptable way of disposing of the American flag.

BETHEL BRIDGE CLUB

On May 18 the Bethel Bridge Club entertained 12 Ogunquit players at the Bethel Inn. The Ogunquit players arrived early before and enjoyed a walk around town and the many new specialty shops.

The seven tables started playing at 9:30 a.m. and after a luncheon break, continued until later afternoon.

The prizes were awarded as follows: First, Barb Merrill; second, Barb Lura; third, Gwen Gribble; fourth, Esther Martin; fifth, Margaret Trinward; sixth, Connie Thorne. "Thank you came" to Lucia Wilson, of Shuburne, N.H., formerly from Bethel.

In the past, the Bethel players will trek to Ogunquit in the fall to challenge for the number one spot.

The group was formed in 1982 and has won the state bridge tournament twice.

By VIVA WHITMAN

Another week gone by and still not the best of weather to plant gardens. Russell has taken advantage of the cloudy, but not rainy, weather to plant and repot and whatever was necessary to get things ready for the garden. He keeps busy all the time of year. I am sure it is his love of her so was glad she came to visit.

His Taylor was up one day last week and as I had returned some books she had loaned me, she called to see if I would like some more to read. Of course, being a bookworm I said yes so she brought me another bunch of books to read. Visiting with her is always a treat, especially when it is her day off from work. We don't see much of her so was glad she came to see one.

Another day a car drove into the yard and it was our cousin, Evelyn Tamminen, and her niece, Barbara Honkala. We saw Barbara last summer while she was in Bethel working and she will be there again this year so we were very happy to have her. It is good to see folks you least expect it. It helps make the day better for someone calling to see one.

Was in North Bridgton a couple of times last week for back treatments as it had gone haywire. It likes to act up at times and this is one of them. Probably knows I would like it to behave and just doesn't want to. I am getting ready for my trip to Colorado this weekend so don't expect a column in the paper unless Russell gets to write a few lines.

There is so much to do here this week as Peggy and I are going to help my daughter with her graduation reception by making up the finger rolls for her and it will be a job. Twenty five dozen of rolls takes a lot of filling. We will be busy on Friday. Also, I have doctors appointments on Saturday as well as time to get everything together to pack for the trip. Makes a body wonder if it is all worth it but guess I will find out. Everyone I talk to that has been to Colorado says it is beautiful country so I am looking forward to seeing it.

I sat at the table the other night and was looking out the back window when I saw a pretty sight. I saw a ruby throated hummingbird. It was still dark as I didn't think they came out early. He acted as though he was looking for the feeder that was out there last year so I told Russell what I had seen and he has put out the hummingbird feeders and there are several birds coming to both of them so it won't be a waste of food. They are so cute when they drink and then perch on the wire above the feeder. Some folks say the birds are here but they sure do. We have never had any of them come like they did last summer and it was a treat to watch them. I never realized how much they would fight either but that they do. We didn't think they would have too good luck finding flowers that they could eat from at this time of year and that is another reason Russell put out the feeders. Guess by the way they come to them they appreciate it.

If I have time I will go to work yards along the road and see all the wild flowers. There are along the ditches and on the banks. I used to love to go hunting for wild flowers but haven't for years. However, along the road are many of the flowers that I used to find in the woods by the golf course in Norway when we lived on the Waterford Road. There are the stinking Benjamins, dogtooth violets, star flowers and many more. Guess I just stopped to see them in years gone by but have not noticed them this year and it makes the roadside pretty when adorned with the many wild flowers that grow there. The thing that makes it not so pretty are the many items thrown out of cars as they drive along the road. Why don't folks take their garbage home and dispose of it there instead of littering the highways? It is a question I can't answer.

SUN UP TANNING
"Where the sun never sets!"
Tues.-Fri. 8 a.m.-8 p.m.
BONNIE MARSHALL
"A FULL SERVICE SALON"

ABOUT 130 PEOPLE SHOWED UP for the Woodstock Alumni Banquet Saturday, held in the Telstar cafeteria. The honor class was the Class of 1939, which was celebrating its 50th anniversary. Woodstock and Greenwood seniors at Telstar were included in the celebration. Donations were collected to raise money for the annual scholarships given seniors by the Woodstock Alumni Association.

ANNIVERSARY GRADS—The West Paris High School Class of 1939 were the senior honor class at the 71st annual banquet of the West Paris High School Alumni Association. This class' graduation was the first public event held in the venerable building which was also the setting for last week's abundant feast. The classmates are, front row, left to right, Annie McKeon Nurni, Frances Pike Frost, Mina Pierce Whittier, Julia Larson Vittum; back row: Myron Pierce, Albert Scribner, Julia Oja Williams, Harold Andrews, Newton Lamb and Hugh Abbott.

It is so much to have the beauty of the countryside marred by all the litter that is thrown out of cars. It really doesn't take much time to use a litter bag in the car and take it home to dispose of.

It is just too bad more folks won't do that.

David Small, of Kennebunkport, called on the Lovejoys this past weekend. As usual they were glad to have him come.

Peggy and I are going to have a picnic on Sunday, May 28. Sheila got many nice items and not much was duplicated. She and David expect their new arrival in July, and have had many things given to them. It all sure helps with the birth of a new baby. There are so many things required to keep them in good health and keep them clean.

I hope the weather will be good next Tuesday when we leave Portland for Denver, Colo. I have only flown once and that time we were above fluffy white clouds and we couldn't see any land or anything until we started to land in Boston. I would like to be able to see some of the territory we go over if possible. Guess I'll take some reading material or something to work on to while away the time in flight.

Take care everyone and have a good week ahead. Hope the weather will be good so you can all enjoy it to the utmost.

Through a 10-year-old's eyes

By ALEX GILLIES

Last Friday was Step-up Day. That is when each grade moves up one grade. That means I spent Friday at Telstar as a 6th Grader. I could call it a good day because my biggest disappointment was not having enough money for chocolate milk. The choir sang, "Come and Dine." Missionary letter: a letter was read from Jerry Matson, Norfolk, Va. He will be with us June 28 at 7:30 p.m., present his wife with seashells from all over the world. Our Country was observed at the close of the worship service. Flowers were given by Mrs. Edna White in memory of parents, Wednesday prayer meeting at 7:30 p.m.; Sunday service, 9:30; Vacation Bible School, June 26-30, 9:11 a.m.
